

Bio 724 Fall Projects: Figure Examples

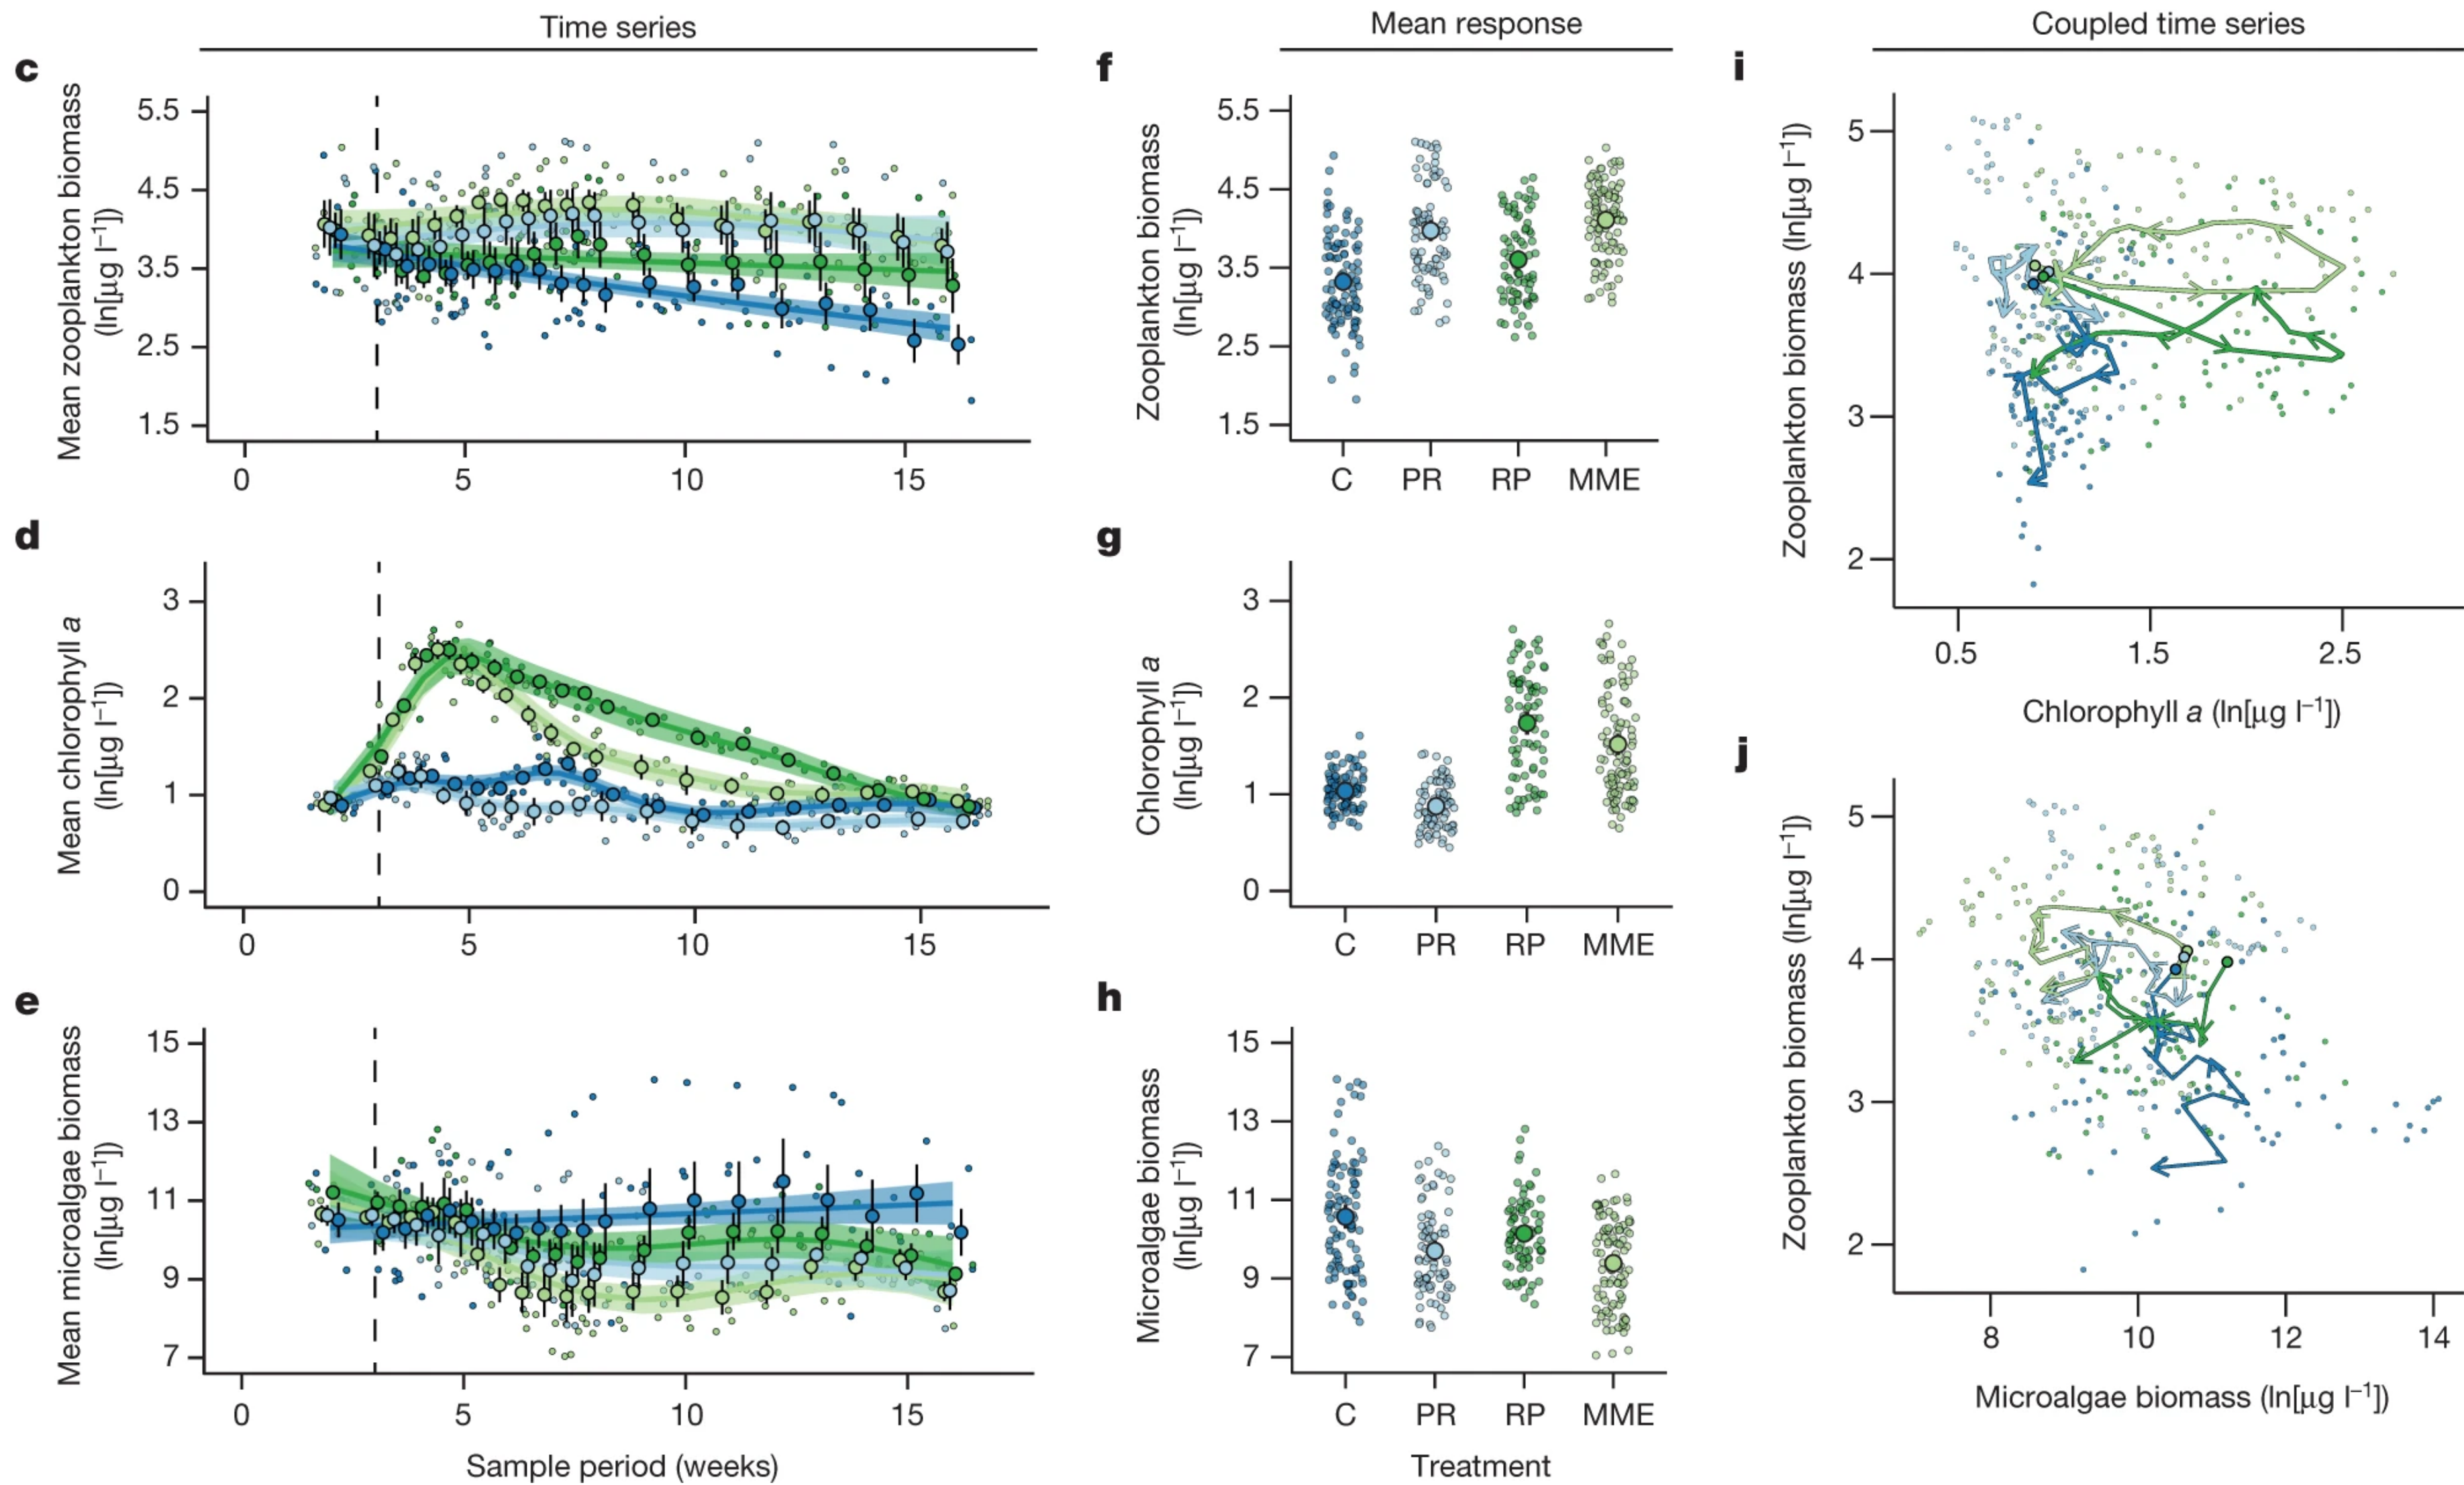

Rapid rewiring of an archaeal transcription factor function via flexible cis-trans interactions

Mar Martinez Pastor^a, Cynthia L. Darnell^a, Angie Vreugdenhil^a, and Amy K. Schmid^{ib, a, *} ^aDepartment of Biology, Duke University, Durham, NC 27708

Predator mass mortality events restructure food webs through trophic decoupling

<https://doi.org/10.1038/s41586-023-06931-7> Simon P. Tye¹, Samuel B. Fey², Jean P. Gibert³ & Adam M. Siepielski¹

Proposed Figures Prior Classes

Proposed Figure: Nice choice

Cell Reports

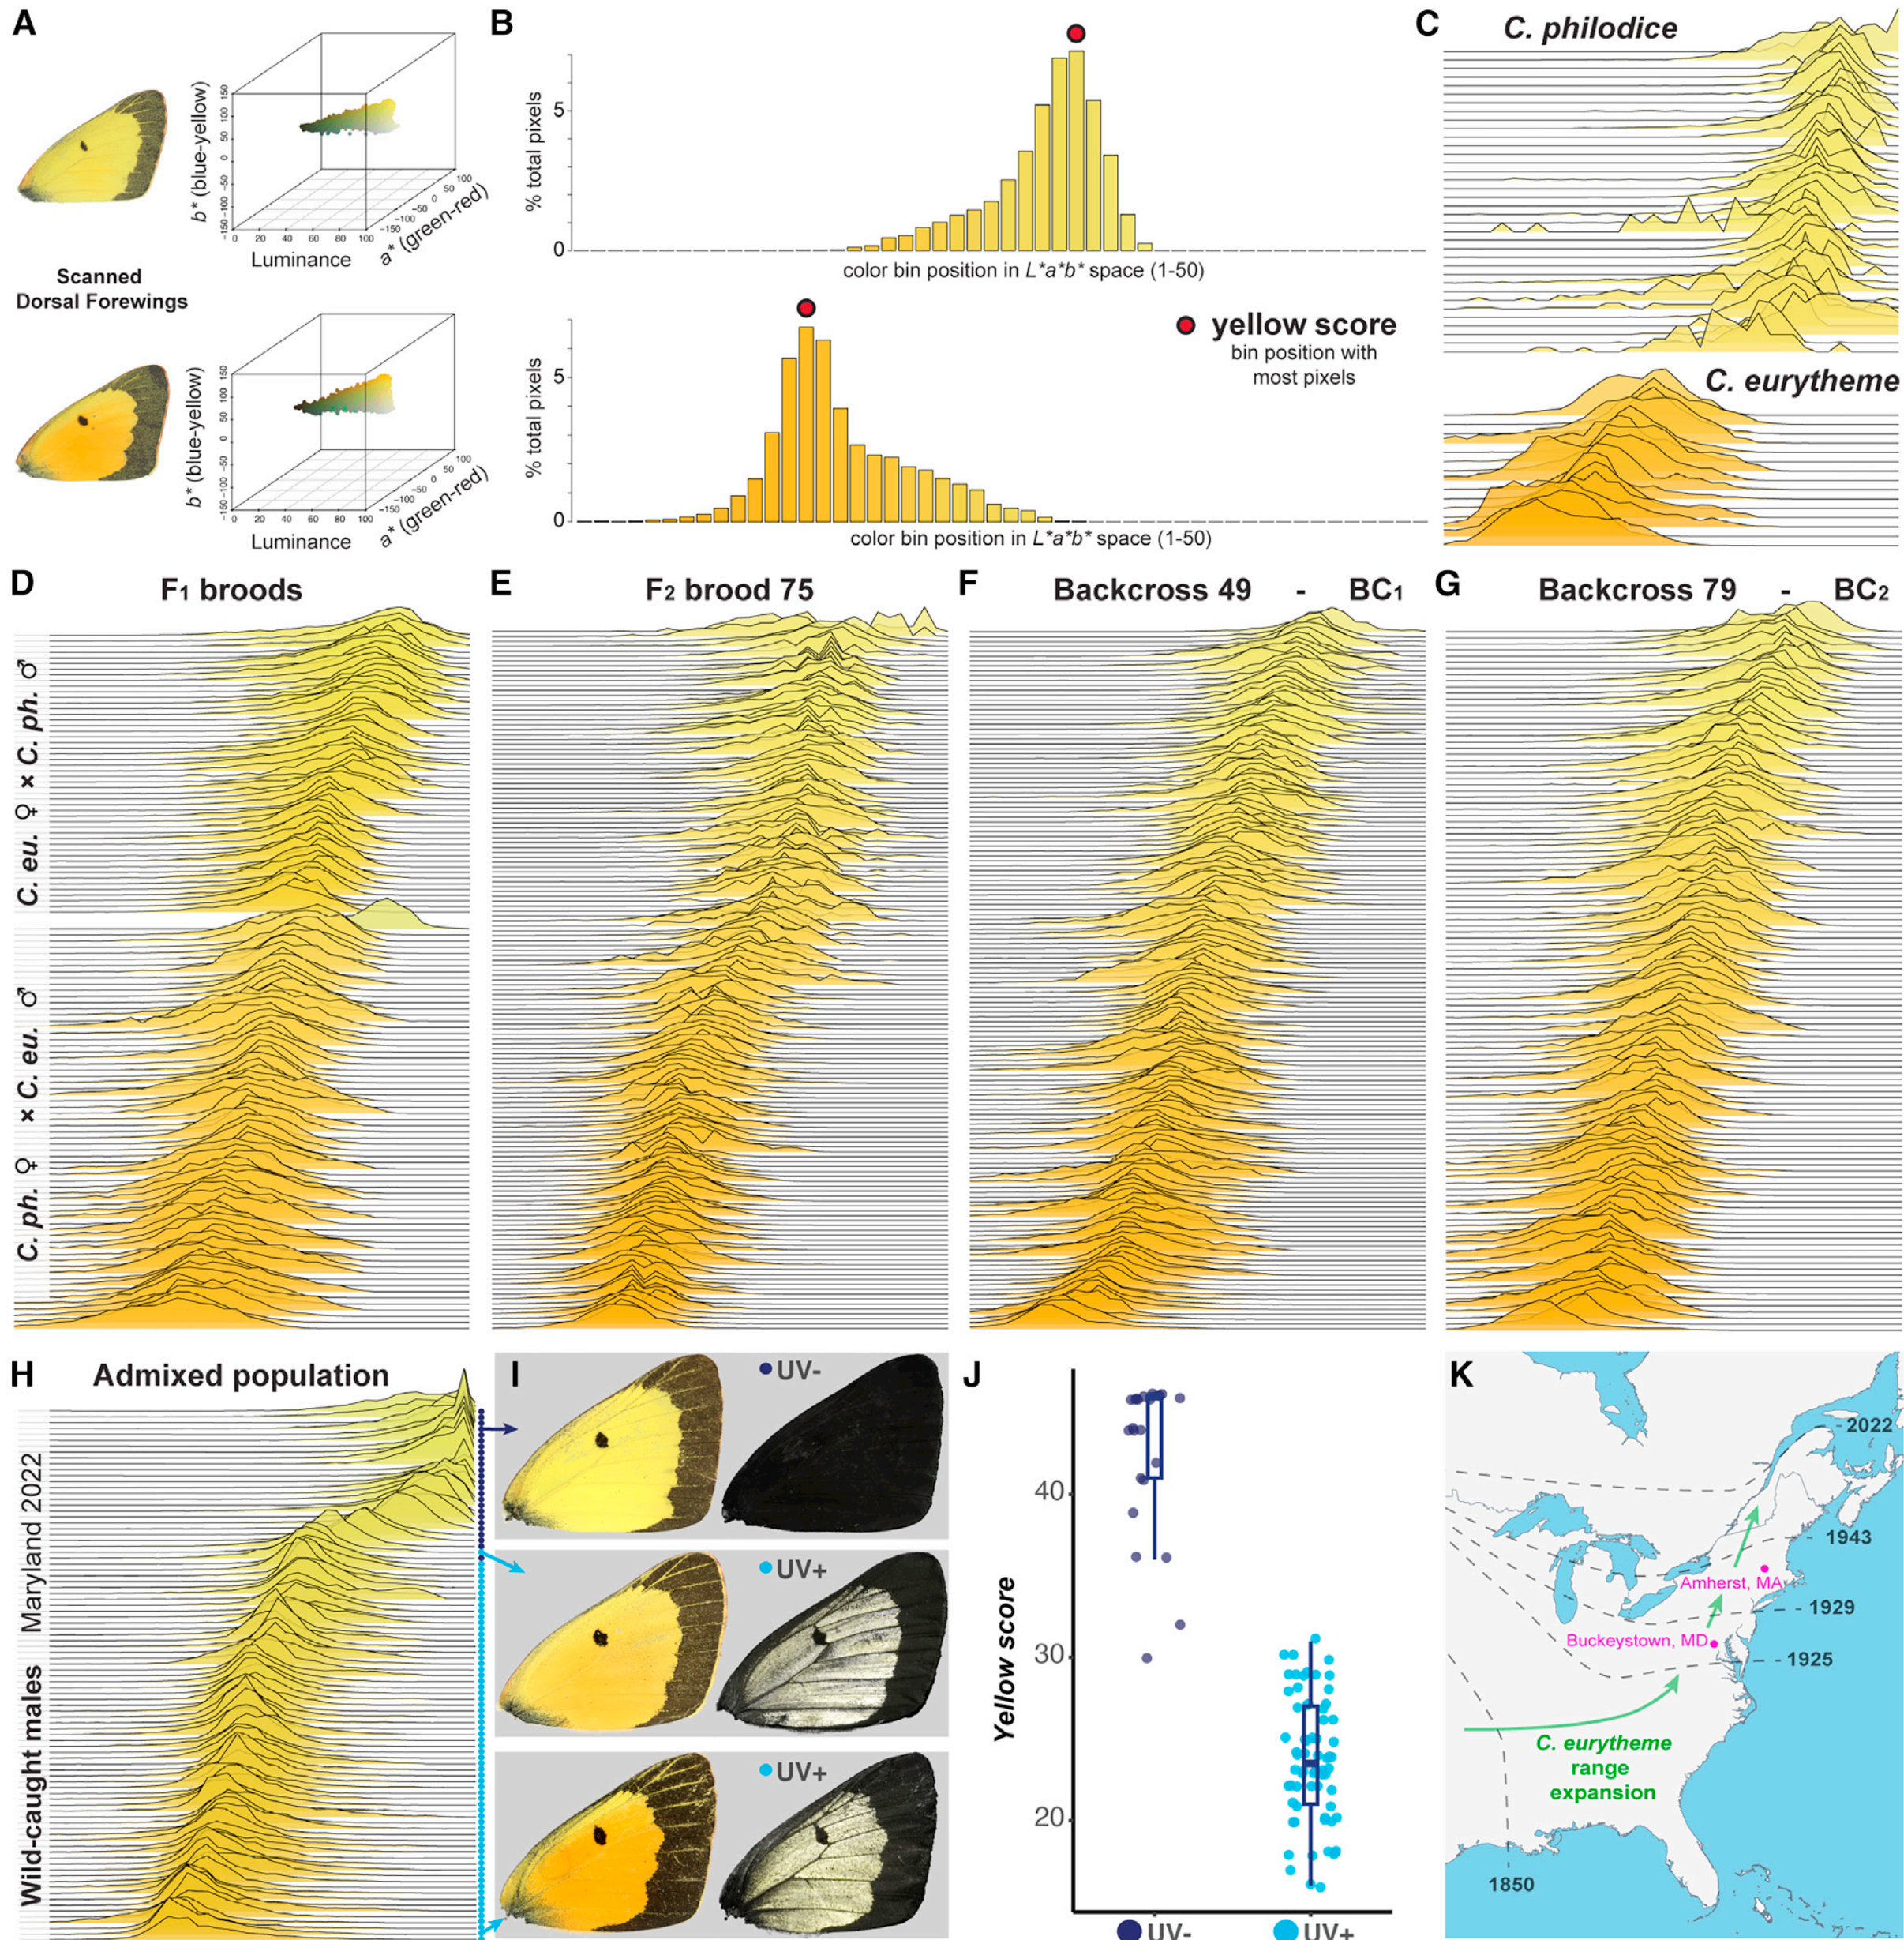

Article

Genetics of yellow-orange color variation in a pair of sympatric sulphur butterflies

Joseph J. Hanly,^{1,2,4,} Caroline M. Francescutti,¹ Ling S. Loh,¹ Olaf B.W.H. Corning,¹ Derek J. Long,¹ Marshall A. Nakatani,¹ Adam H. Porter,^{3,} and Arnaud Martin^{1,*}

¹Department of Biological Sciences, The George Washington University, Washington, DC, USA
²Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute, Gamboa, Panama
³Department of Biology, University of Massachusetts Amherst, Amherst, MA, USA
⁴Lead contact

*Correspondence: joe.hanly@gmail.com (J.J.H.), aporter@umass.edu (A.H.P.), arnaud@gwu.edu (A.M.)
<https://doi.org/10.1016/j.celrep.2023.112820>

Proposed Figure: Too simple

Prey speed influences the speed and structure of the raptorial strike of a 'sit-and-wait' predator

Sergio Rossoni[†] and Jeremy E. Niven

Cite this article: Rossoni S, Niven JE. 2020
Prey speed influences the speed and structure of the raptorial strike of a 'sit-and-wait'
predator. Biol. Lett. 16: 20200098.
<http://dx.doi.org/10.1098/rsbl.2020.0098>

